A MESSAGE FROM THE BOARD CHAIR & EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Dear Friends,

It has been my honor to serve as the 2018 Chair of the Board of Directors for Chattanooga Room in the Inn. As we look back over the past year – the challenges we overcame and the goals we achieved – one word comes to mind: commitment. The commitment our volunteers had to ensure the wellbeing and success of our program participants. The commitment our donors made to fight against homelessness in our community. The commitment our staff made to educate and empower our women and children. More importantly, the commitment of those same women and children to never again experience homelessness.

Chattanooga is renowned for supporting and giving aid to those in need. And Chattanooga Room in the Inn is no exception thanks to the passion, dedication and generosity of our supporters, community partners, and staff. Our annual Kentucky Derby Party fundraiser was a great success and another opportunity to share our mission and raise awareness. There were dozens of benefits held for us, countless meals prepared, goods and services donated throughout the year that allowed us to continue providing services and support to our participants. Every dollar that is raised and every resource that is donated enables our women and children to achieve their personal goals and work harder for their successes. Our volunteers are by far our most important ambassadors.

2018 saw our 30th anniversary! It is amazing to get to celebrate this. And our Board of Directors continue to work on the goals and strategies that were developed in our Strategic Plan. The emphasis has been on building a stronger relationship with our donors and placing Chattanooga Room in the Inn on firmer, long term, sustainable, financial footing.

During 2018 the Chattanooga Room in the Inn Executive Director and staff worked tirelessly not just to provide a stable, safe environment for the 26 women and 40 children who were experiencing homelessness, but to offer counseling, life skills classes, tutoring for the children, finance classes and an abundance of life changing resources to empower and build confidence so that they will never experience homelessness again.

We are proud of all we have achieved together in 2018, and we take this occasion to thank you for your support, encouragement and dedication. 53% of our revenue came from public donations. Your generosity and passion for our mission was paramount to the success of our programs – we couldn't have accomplished what we did without you.

If you asked any of our board members, they would say the fight for those experiencing homelessness is a privilege. But not an easy one. As budget priorities shift at the federal and state levels, support from our donors and community partners is more critical than ever to maintain and expand our many needed programs. We are thankful for your ongoing commitment as we continue to empower these homeless women and children to become self-sufficient.

Jody Jackson
Chair, 2018 Board of Directors

Dear Friends of CRITI,

Once again, we are overwhelmed by the amount of support this community provides for helping women and children overcome homelessness. From providing evening meals to hosting events that benefit us, you all bless us with everything we need. Throughout our Annual Report, we hope that you learn what kind of impact you have had for some very vulnerable people.

I am often asked "How did you end up at Chattanooga Room in the Inn?" I can give a biographical explanation of my education and experience but it is so much more than the unexpected path I took.

I am grateful for my journey that led me to CRITI and am inspired daily by the will and determination many of our ladies have to overcome huge obstacles. I am so blessed to have a job I love that requires my mix of education and experience and provides the challenges to always learn more. And I get to see hope every day...this is my WHY!

What I am about to share now is a very powerful example of WHY CRITI is so necessary for women and children experiencing homelessness. Although CRITI is not a domestic violence shelter, many of our participants come from that kind of environment. Last summer, a participant had taken her son for visitation with his father who is also her most recent abuser. This visitation went sideways and he tried to strangle her. She screamed for help and neighbors came out. He stopped but she called the police and he was later arrested. When she was telling us about the incident, she said she had never called the police before even though she has lived a lifetime experiencing abuse. This was the first time she called the police because she had somewhere safe to go. Knowing that she was no longer dependent on him, she felt empowered to do something different. This is our WHY!

What is your WHY? We would love to know why YOU support Chattanooga Room in the Inn! Were you raised by a single mom who struggled? Or has your sister experienced homelessness before? Whatever your reason, we want to know it. Please email me at ecreal@chattanoogaroomintheinn.com with MY WHY on the subject line or call me so we can learn more about what drives you to help women and children overcome homelessness.

Thank you for all of the support you have given us. We appreciate your trust in us to use your time and charitable contributions wisely.

Yours in service,
Erin Creal
Executive Director

CRITI PROGRAM UPDATES

In early 2018, the staff at CRITI was faced with a decision. A family that was scheduled to be admitted showed up with a dog. Zane, a blue heeler mix, had been their protector during domestic violence incidents. The mom had arranged for one week of boarding at McKamey Animal Center but we all knew the family would need more than one week of shelter. We reached out to our next-door neighbors at the Humane Educational Society and they were happy to help. This was a true blessing because Zane had been injured and couldn't walk up steps so he would require boarding at HES overnight. This helped CRITI transition to a pet-friendly shelter. Research shows that people experiencing homelessness will refuse shelter if the alternative is giving up their companion. Research also shows that people heal faster with the unconditional love of a pet. Since then we have admitted four dogs and four cats with no huge problems. Zane received surgery on both back legs and has made a full recovery!

This time last year, staff was focused on becoming as Trauma-Informed as possible. Time and energy went into forming relationships with our participants. We have learned that housing women and children in transition isn't enough to get them stabilized...they must feel safe. When someone is in a constant state of fight-or-flight mode, they are scared and unable to make reasonable decisions. It is critical that they not live in fear at CRITI and learn to trust. And if you have been to CRITI recently, you might think it more relaxed than previous years. This makes participants more comfortable and open up to staff about what the real issues are. They are staying longer and have a much better chance of graduating into permanent housing and staying permanently housed.

CRITI FORECAST

You are probably aware of a shortage of affordable housing for our participants. Did you know that "affordable" means that approximately 30% of the household income goes towards housing? Without a housing subsidy, our participants are faced with either substandard housing and/or housing that is outside of resources. CRITI has recently partnered with Elmont Capital, the developer of Chestnut Flats downtown, to provide supportive services to graduates who can take advantage of Project Based Vouchers attached to their rental units which will be available in April 2019. We are so grateful to have this resource for our ladies!

Meanwhile, if you have been to CRITI for a tour recently, you know that we have outgrown our current facility. With participants staying in the program longer, we can't serve as many as before even though we are serving them better. We are always looking for opportunities that will allow us to grow and continue to be a blessing to the participants and to the community that has been so supportive of us. If you would like to learn more about CRITI and opportunities to help us grow, please call and schedule a tour when it is most convenient for you.

30TH ANNIVERSARY

On August 30, 2018 CRITI celebrated our 30th Anniversary at The Meeting House in Red Bank. Guests of honor included our founder, Christine Morrison, and a program graduate, Monique Roberts, who also serves on our Board of Directors. Each were able to tell the story of their individual journeys that led us to where we are today. Many thanks go to The Meeting House for hosting the event and Athens Distributing, Mike's Hole in the Wall and Coca Cola for providing beverages.

VOLUNTEER SPOTLIGHT

CHRISTINE MORRISON

As mentioned, Christine Morrison founded CRITI in 1988 when she learned about the lack of shelter beds for women and children experiencing homelessness. Still in college at the time, Chris sought out churches that could help fill the void for this population. She and her husband had volunteered at Nashville's Room in the Inn and followed that model of participating churches hosting individuals who experience homelessness.

Even though the participants were safe to eat and rest overnight, it wasn't enough to get families stabilized. With her own corps of volunteers, she persisted until CRITI had its own facility. After taking a break for motherhood, Chris returned to volunteer for CRITI. She helps graduates set up house-keeping in their new places and will be representing CRITI for various presentations in the community. She has a servants heart and we couldn't be happier to have her back!!!

EMILY CLEGG

Meet Emily Clegg! Emily originally hails from Buford, Georgia, but is now a Chattanooga resident and has been volunteering at CRITI since 2014. She comes to CRITI every other Tuesday evening to hang with CRITI's kids so that the mothers have an opportunity to participate in our in-house Bible Study. We are particularly lucky to have Emily here as she is an elementary school teacher by training and has a real heart to make a difference in the lives of our community's children. Emily taught at East Lake Elementary for 6 years prior to moving into her new role there as Parent/Volunteer Coordinator. In addition, she now works part time for Neigh'tions, another non-profit in Chattanooga that serves our growing refugee population. Emily says "I love volunteering at CRITI because the kids are so much fun! I learn so much from them and their families every time I come. I've also enjoyed getting to know the other volunteers and the staff. I am humbled to get to be a small part of CRITI's work in our community."

Thank-you, Emily, for your faithful service here at CRITI and in the Chattanooga community in general. Staff, participants, and especially our children are so blessed by the time, energy, and love you share. Thank-you!!!

MY SPIRIT WAS JADED

"On April 30th, 2018, I walked through the doors at CRITI. One suitcase and my eight-month old son 'JR' in hand... impoverished, unemployed, abused, uneducated and now homeless too. Since childhood, I became almost conditioned to withstand maltreatment... I had no idea I was being emotionally abused. After many failed relationships and absolutely zero personal success, my family put me aside and labeled me a problem and embarrassment. I had nowhere to go.

Since I walked through CRITI's doors, I have accomplished more life goals [than in] my entire life combined. The women here have shown me love, respect, safety and compassion. They believe in me. CRITI made it possible to obtain my GED and enroll in the 'ticket to work' program. In two years, my goal is to complete my Certified Professional Coder apprenticeship, earn a living wage and not be receiving any public assistance.

I will forever be grateful to CRITI for showing me my way home...my life will never be the same again."
